"Our sister airline Thomas Cook Airlines in Scandinavia has already successfully implemented the idea, and we are proud to be the first German airline to offer our passengers this type of service."

Condor will initially contact passengers on selected flights, and give them the opportunity to choose what they would like to buy at Airshoppen range from the comfort of their own homes. The leisure carrier is offering the best prices and will even reimburse customers with the difference in purchase price, if they find the same product at a better price. To celebrate the launch of Airshoppen, Condor is offering bargain hunters the opportunity to buy four selected products for the price of three. Passengers can place their orders up to six days prior to departure, and are simply handed their goods without any extra charge, when aboard their Condor flight.
